

3 Replies

There are many classifications of video games. These classifications are also known as genres. Video games can be classified

These genre include action, shooter, action-adventure, adventure, role-playing, simulation, strategy, puzzles, cards, and race. V

Action video games are games that usually emphasize physical challenges, including hand-eye coordination and reaction time.

Shooter video games also test a players's speed and reaction time. Shooter games tend to focus on a character using some sor

Action-adventure games are video games that combines elements of the adventure game genre with various action game elem

An adventure game is a video game in which the player assumes the role of protagonist in an interactive story driven by explor

A role-playing game is a game in which players assume the roles of characters in fictional setting. Â Role-playing video games t

Simulation video games are games that are designed to closely simulate aspects of a real or fictional reality. Majority of all game

Strategy video games focus on careful planning and skillful resource management in order to achieve a Â goal. These are also k

Puzzle video games require the player to solve logic puzzles or even navigate complex locations.

The last to genres are cards and race which are self explanatory.

In addition, a video game can fit into many different genres. The more genres a game includes, the better the player enjoys the g

This entry was posted in Uncategorized on